

Technical Consulting

The Challenge

A large medical device Company reduced its engineering staff through restructuring. Ongoing efforts at sustaining engineering for existing products, advanced technology development, and product design began to suffer from a lack of depth and breadth in the remaining engineering group. Triple Ring was engaged to provide ongoing oversight of the engineering activities and take on engineering challenges outside the skill-set of the internal Company team.

Triple Ring Impact

- Allowed maintenance of a high-level engineering team at a moderate cost
- On-demand expertise across a wide spectrum of disciplines
- On-demand availability to solve pressing engineering challenges

The Results

Cost-efficient access to a high-performing engineering team will allow the Company to address both ongoing sustaining engineering problems and pursue advanced technology developments.

Regular interaction creates an integrated team culture between Triple Ring and the Company.